

Hey future EMTs and Paramedics!

This is Forrest, I am the creator of id44.com I am a firefighter/paramedic on the West Coast. Feel free to take a look around my site! I'm adding new content all the time. I have created lots of free study material located to the left side of the page, so make sure that you take a look!

I remember what it was like preparing for National Registry, how can I forget? I was lost! I did not know where to study or what to study for that matter. I think my EMT book was about a 1,000 pages, and when I got into medic school.. just one of my books (of several) was 1,700 pages. I thought, "Come on! How can anyone properly prepare themselves for the NREMT exam with so much to learn?" Well, I figured that there had to be a website out there..somewhere!! All I found were websites that either wanted my credit card or my personal information. Not only that, the websites were created by people that weren't even in the field! What?!! What do they know about this exam? I'll tell you..NOTHING! I tried a few of the sites before taking my test, and after I walked out of the exam I thought, "What a waste of money!" I spent $34.00 dollars for one site and $50.00 for another, that doesn't even include my books! So, that's why and when I decided to create id44.com. I wanted to make a website that was focused solely on passing the National Registry test.. and so I did. id44.com has been running for about 7 years now and is stronger than ever. The EMS world is small (as you will soon find out) and I get the majority of my referrals from word of mouth. That's a good thing! id44.com has become the "HUB" for everyone that wants to pass the exam. I am nearing one million page views since my sites inception and it is growing at a rate of 20% per year. Believe me, you have come to the right place!

If you have any study material, please feel free to email it to me. I will sift through it, and if I see anything that looks like NREMT material, I may use some of it. I know the difference, because I look at the NREMT exams regularly. The focus of this site is not to cheat your way through the exam, it's to make you focus on the areas that you NEED to know before the day you take your exam. I want you to understand EMS concepts.

It's not a good feeling to sit down in front of the computer and start guessing on test day, and it's a worse feeling to go to the NREMT's website the next day just to see that you failed. Please let me try and help you pass the exam and to help you with the butterflies that are sure to come on the day you sit down at the computer to take "the test!"

You are almost there! Becoming an EMT or Paramedic is not easy! I look forward to seeing you in the field, but not pounding on my chest or defibrillating me!
